

Blood Brother of Famous Chief Cochise Dead in Arizona

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 27.—Holding inviolate the sacred secret of the location of the grave of the great Apache chief, Cochise, his "blood brother," Captain Thomas Jeffords, the famous pioneer Indian trader and United States military courier, passed away at his ranch at Owl's Head, 35 miles north of Tucson last week at the advanced age of 53 years.

The dispatch telling of his death did not state the cause of his death, but it is supposed to have been some sudden sickness as three weeks ago, when the grizzled old Indian fighter was in the city to meet State Historian Thomas Farish, he looked well and hearty. Some of his friends thought last evening that he might have been suddenly stricken with pneumonia.

Lived as Recluse.

The news of the death of the veteran Arizonan caused universal regret among his many friends and comrades of earlier days when it became known that he had died at his ranch. Although of late years he had been much of a recluse, still his friends had never forgotten him and many had seen him on his last two or three visits during the past few months.

Whatever else Captain Jeffords will be remembered by perhaps the most interesting feature of his western life was his long and steadfast friendship for the great Apache chief, Cochise. The two were "blood brothers," made so by the mystic ceremony of the intermingling and sipping of blood from each other's arms.

Secret Died With Him.

This sacred friendship Captain Jeffords never violated and he remained in the confidence of the famous Apache warrior until the day of Cochise's death. Captain Jeffords was the only white man entrusted with the mysterious secret of the exact location of the great chief's grave, and to his dying day he never revealed it, and when his life ebbed the secret died with him.

As a pledge of his friendship and affection the great chief presented Captain Jeffords with a double-barreled shotgun which he prized and valued, just as he would an arm or Apache through the influence of General Howard and remained until the breach between the Indians and the government in 1876, when he resigned his position.

Served With Miles.

When General Miles took command of the forces for his campaign against Geronimo in 1885 he enlisted the services of Jeffords and he served for some time in that campaign as a messenger and courier. For three years in the early '90s he was post trader at Fort Huachuca, later he retired to the seclusion of his ranch at Owl's Head, about 25 miles north of Tucson, and has not been seen much by his friends since.

The historic winning of the $2,000 reward prize offered by General Crook for the bringing in of Cochise in 1871 by Captain Jeffords was related by H. Harrison, the well known mining man who opened the first mines at Magdalena. Mr. Harrison was at that time trader at Fort McRae near Canonada Alamosa, about 100 miles west of Socorro, N. M. He knew Captain Jeffords well, having first met him in 1868.

The Indians had been ordered to come in to Canonada Alamosa and many obeyed, but Cochise had stayed out. Crook offered a prize of $2,000 to anyone who could bring Cochise in.

Captor of Cochise.

One night while sleeping Harrison was awakened by Jeffords and the two in company with several others made the trip to the camp of Cochise. Here Jeffords persuaded Cochise to come in, promising that there were no soldiers in Canonada Alamosa. Cochise agreed but when they neared the place saw soldiers, which had come in later. Cochise suspected treachery and placed Harrison and Jeffords as hostages under guard, but after a peace parley at Canonada Alamosa the matter was settled and peace made. It illustrated the great power over the Indians that Captain Jeffords had.

Mr. Harrison also had an experience a year later when Apache Indians with passes from Jeffords then agent at Apache Pass in Arizona, raided his ranch near Fort Baird and killed his partner and several others. These experiences he often talked over with Captain Jeffords in later years in Tucson.

Word Never Broken.

"Captain Jeffords was six feet two inches and straight as an arrow. His hair was brown and his eyes blue. He was a smooth shaven. He was very quiet and dressed usually in civilian dress except when he wore Indian costume. He was absolutely without fear," Governor Hughes stated last week, "and his word was never broken. He was like an Indian in this respect, and when he once gave his word it was law."

Jeffords was a bachelor, never marrying. He gambled much in the early days and often lost large sums of money made by trading with the Indians. He was of a very jovial disposition and kept up his good nature to his old age. In his death Arizona has lost one of its most unique characters, and one who in a modest way contributed materially to the events of the early history of the state.

EXPLOSION WRECKS MINING PLANT.

Silver City, Feb. 26.—An explosion which occurred at one of the mine shafts on the C. & O. company's property at 1 o'clock this morning left only the drum of the hoist and a large hold in the ground to show for the shaft house and the machinery. No one was injured.

This shaft was being sunk under the personal supervision of Mr. Oglesby, and above ground there was a small sheet iron shaft house, the hoist, frame work, and a small gasoline engine. In the building was a 50-gallon tank of gasoline, 100 pounds of giant powder, two boxes of caps and several rolls of fuse. When this bunch exploded there is little wonder that nothing remained. According to what might be expected, the gasoline engine is going yet, but probably in a straight up direction. In any event it has not been seen since.

The explosion occurred through the carelessness of the two men who were working on top, for a night shift is employed. In some way these two men got a fire started, and realizing what must happen they ran down the hill, firing several shots to warn everybody in the neighborhood. The noise made by the explosion was terrific and was heard even in Silver City. A Mr. Smith's place was nearest the scene of the explosion and he was 200 to 300 feet distant. A considerable amount of debris fell over his place, but he thought some one was trying to play a trick on him and on looking out and seeing nothing he went back to bed.

The scene of the explosion was just at the edge of the disputed property lying between the Langston and Pacific claims, and there was a rumor that the explosion was split work. The owners of the Langston, however, state most emphatically that they hold no such opinion and that they are satisfied the explosion was entirely accidental.

BANQUET FOR POPE AT LAS CRUCES TONIGHT

(Special Dispatch to Evening Herald) Las Cruces, N. M., Feb. 27.—United States Judge W. H. Pope, the members of the state supreme bench, and a number of members of the El Paso bar will be guests of honor at an elaborate banquet to be given here tonight by the Dona Ana County Bar Association. Governor McDonald had expected to be present, but could not leave Santa Fe. The state supreme court judges are on their way here from Santa Fe in automobiles and are expected to arrive at noon. Among the toasts Judge R. H. Hanna will respond to "Seeing Things From the Bench," Judge Frank W. Parker, to "Experiences With the Dona Ana County Bar," Attorney General Frank W. Clancy to "The Early Bench and Bar of New Mexico," Judge William H. Pope to "The United States Court," and Judge Edward L. Medler to "Our Visitors."

M'MANUS THINKS CABODI IS INSANE

Gallup Murderer's Case Now Rests with District Judge Abbott in Santa Fe who may Commit Him to Insane Asylum.

CHARLES HAWKS GOES BACK TO STATE PRISON.

Warden John R. McManus of the state penitentiary came to Albuquerque last night, returning this morning with John Smith, alias Charles Hawks, the Quay county convict who escaped from the penitentiary Sunday and was caught yesterday by a Santa Fe officer at Isleta. Warden McManus expresses the belief that John Cabodi, sentenced to be hanged for murder at Gallup a week from today, is insane, and that he has been of unsound mind for months. Mr. McManus so testified before Judge Abbott of Santa Fe at an inquiry into the condemned man's sanity yesterday and was supported in his testimony by Dr. James A. Hanes, the prison physician. A special jury may be empaneled to pass on Cabodi's sanity. Cabodi was sentenced to hang a month ago, but was given a reprieve by Governor McDonald pending an examination into his sanity.

TINY TOTS MAKING LONG JOURNEY BY THEMSELVES

Joe and Clara Odell Here This Morning on Their Way From Silver City to Osage, Kansas.

There have been some remarkable instances of children passing through here on long journeys alone but the record was broken this morning by Joe and Clara Odell of Silver City. These youngsters are six and four years old, respectively, and were tagged from Silver City, their home, to Osage, Kans., where they are to stay with friends. The youngsters seemed cheerful and not to mind the long trip in any way. Kind hearted passengers on No. 510 and No. 19, on which they continued east, looked after them.

GIRLS! STOP WASHING THE HAIR WITH SOAP

Soap Dries Your Scalp, Causing Dandruff, Then Hair Falls Out—Try This Next Time.

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dandruff. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine, and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dirt, dirt and excess oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be cleaned, but it will be wavy, fluffy, and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and luster.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.

A Good Cough Medicine for Children.

ENLARGEMENT OF HARWOOD SCHOOL IS PROPOSED

Prominent Methodist Churchmen Here Investigating Institution with a View to Extending its Activity.

Rev. H. A. Bassett, D. D., formerly dean of the Theological school of Puebla, Mexico, and now of Mount Vernon, Iowa, and Rev. Thomas Nicholson, D. D., corresponding secretary of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church of New York city, arrived in Albuquerque last night for the purpose of making a thorough investigation of the Albuquerque Biblical college, better known as the Harwood School for Boys.

Dr. Bassett will be here for some time, and if the plans of the church authorities with regard to the institution are carried out, will probably become president of the institution. Mr. Nicholson will leave Albuquerque this evening, but has spent the day at the school looking into its present condition and possibilities. It is proposed, if conditions prove satisfactory, to materially enlarge the school both in equipment, buildings and scope of the work and it is likely that Mr. Nicholson's recommendations in this regard will result in making this school now a comparatively small one, into one of the most important church educational institutions in the state.

Dr. Bassett and Dr. Nicholson while here are guests of Rev. C. O. Beckman.

Because of its purity and high shortening value Cottolene makes foods tender and delicious. It has been a favorite cooking fat for many years.

It "creams up" beautifully when used in mixing pastry. It is a firm fat when cool, but nevertheless is always of just the right consistency to blend evenly with the flour or sugar. You who make cakes, pies, cookies, biscuits and the like know what an advantage this is.

Cottolene is especially excellent for all frying—whether pan frying or deep frying. Foods fried in Cottolene do not absorb grease, neither does Cottolene absorb odors. Using it over and over for frying, you not only find it economical, but you produce food that is wholly digestible and most appetizing.

A prominent physician says of Cottolene: "Cottolene, being essentially a vegetable product, forms the most healthful and nutritious cooking medium known to the food experts and medical profession."—(From an article in the American Housekeeper, entitled "The Most Healthful of All Cooking Fats," by Dr. James Paige Emery.)

Every thoughtful mother and careful housewife will be interested in the valuable FREE Cook Book, HOME HELPS. Send for your copy today, also order a pail of Cottolene from your grocer.

HOMINY CRESCENTS

Fine hominy or corn meal may be used in the same way to serve with meats or for breakfast with syrup. Cook 2-3 cup hominy or meal in 1 pint boiling water over the fire until thickened, then place over boiling water to finish cooking for about an hour, adding salt and more water if too stiff, also the yolk of an egg, or a little butter. When done, pour into flat pan and when cool cut into crescents, diamonds or strips, roll in egg and crumbs and fry in Cottolene. MRS. HELEN ARMSTRONG.
